

2011 Media Award

This years 2011 Silver Award Conservation Districts in the News Award, presented at the New York State Association of Conservation District's annual banquet, was awarded to Schuyler County Soil and Water Conservation District. The District received the award for not only its quantity of press and exposure, but also the exposure it gave to the Districts commitment to shared services and partnerships throughout the world of Soil and Water Conservation. This work is a showcase of the dedication Elaine Dalrymple has brought to improve and foster the Schuyler County Districts relationships with the local media. The District has worked very hard to establish direct relationships with multiple media outlets. This has been due directly to the diligence and dedication of Elaine. Her relentless efforts and passion for promoting agriculture, and natural resources throughout our region has led to an exponential annual growth in our abilities to have an impact on local media and the awareness of our community in these areas of interest. The award was received by our Legislative Board Representative, Glenn Larison, from New York State Agricultural Commissioner Aubertine.